What Lurio is.

Lurio is the client-side expansion partner that helps international companies turn market-entry decisions into coordinated local execution.

It begins in Colombia with a regional ambition: to become a reference expansion partner for international companies building and growing across Latin America. Lurio does not replace legal, tax, accounting or recruiting specialists. It aligns them around one business objective and keeps management informed and in control.

Client-side Expansion Management

Strategy + specialists + coordinated execution, built around the client's business objective.

Purpose, vision and promise.

PURPOSE

To make international expansion more manageable by bringing clarity, alignment and local capability to unfamiliar markets.

VISION

To become a reference expansion partner for international companies building and growing their presence across Latin America.

MISSION

We help international companies assess, enter, launch and expand by aligning strategy, specialist expertise and local execution around their business objectives.

BRAND PROMISE

You stay in control. We make the local pieces work together.

How Lurio behaves.

- Build around fit, not affiliation.
- Make complexity usable.

Positioning.

For international companies - initially U.S.-based B2B businesses - entering or expanding in Colombia, Lurio is the client-side expansion partner that aligns strategy, specialist expertise and local execution so management can move forward with confidence and control.

Lurio combines cross-border business understanding, independent judgment, an open ecosystem of local specialists and hands-on accountability.

Keep Expansion Moving.

Brand Essence: CONFIDENT MOMENTUM

Lurio should never feel like a distant advisory firm or a transactional service provider. The brand combines clarity, forward movement and human proximity.

Clear judgment. Practical confidence. Human proximity.

Sharp, not academic

Intelligence should be visible in clarity of thought.

Confident, not absolute

Give a recommendation, reasoning and room for management judgment.

Hands-on, not transactional

Maintain ownership of the process, even when specialists execute the discipline.

Approachable, not casual

Professional and warm without becoming startup-ish.

INTERNAL VERBAL RULE

Know what matters. Explain it clearly. Recommend a path. Keep it moving.

Messaging architecture.

ONE-LINER

Lurio is the client-side expansion partner that helps international companies turn market-entry decisions into coordinated local execution.

CORE SUPPORTING LINE

Your advisors, ours, or both.

SUPPORTING LINE

One expansion. One business objective. The right specialists.

HOMEPAGE HERO

Keep your expansion moving.

Four messaging pillars.

01

Built around your business

Your expansion model should follow your business - not a provider's service catalog.

02

One expansion. The right specialists.

Your expansion is one business initiative, even when it requires many specialists.

03

Clear decisions, not more complexity

Local expertise creates value when management can act on it.

04

From recommendation to momentum

Expansion does not end when the strategy deck is delivered.

Language principles.

DO

- Lead with the business implication.
- Make the next step obvious.
- Translate local complexity.
- Prefer concrete language.
- Never oversell Colombia.
- Never sell fear.

AVOID AS CATEGORY WALLPAPER

- one-stop shop
- end-to-end solutions
- seamless expansion
- unlock your potential
- world-class / best-in-class

60% light neutrals (white/parchment) / 25% Midnight Ink & Charcoal / 10% Amethyst / 5% Orchid or Rose-Beige accents. Accent colors should guide attention, not decorate every surface.

Editorial intelligence + operational clarity.

Expansion moves People ideas opportunities
the world forward. in motion.

HEADLINE DIRECTION / EDITORIAL SERIF

Preferred production direction: Playfair Display or an equivalent licensed editorial serif. For this Brand Book, a neutral serif substitute is used for rendering.

BODY / UI / INTER

Inter for body copy, UI, charts and executive documents. Office fallback: Aptos/Arial for body; Georgia for editorial headlines.

Hierarchy

- H1: Editorial serif, 32-48 pt, sentence case.
- H2: Editorial serif or Inter Medium, 20-28 pt.
- Body: Inter Regular, 9.5-11 pt.
- Labels: Inter SemiBold, uppercase, increased tracking.
- Data: Inter / tabular figures; prioritize legibility.

Perspective, movement and connection.

Use broad architectural arcs, apertures, crops and fields of negative space. The visual system should suggest perspective and forward movement without literal arrows, maps, globes or thin-line consulting diagrams.

Real places. Real progress.

- Documentary/editorial over stock-corporate.
- Show people in context, not staged handshakes.
- Use architecture, operations and details to signal place subtly.
- Avoid flags, obvious maps, tourist imagery and generic skylines as the entire story.
- Grade imagery toward the Amethyst & Ink family without forcing every image purple.

Make complexity usable.

Information design is a brand asset for Lurio. Charts, decision matrices and status reporting should make executive complexity easier to act on.

SAMPLE EXECUTIVE STATUS VIEW

Chart rules: no rainbow palettes; use Midnight Ink for baseline information, Amethyst for focus, Orchid for secondary comparisons and Rose-Beige sparingly. Label directly whenever possible. Avoid unnecessary 3D effects and decorative gridlines.

Website and proposals.

WEBSITE HERO

Keep your expansion moving.

Lurio works alongside international management teams to structure their Colombia entry, align the right local specialists and turn market-entry decisions into coordinated execution.

CTA: Discuss your Colombia expansion

PROPOSAL PRINCIPLE

Start with the client's objective, not with Lurio credentials. Organize scope around decisions and outcomes rather than a menu of legal, tax, payroll and administrative services.

LinkedIn, email and executive updates.

LINKEDIN

Use the channel to demonstrate how Lurio thinks: expansion decisions, local reality, execution insight and market intelligence. Avoid "5 reasons to invest in Colombia" promotional content.

EMAIL

Short enough to scan, detailed enough to act on. Recommended structure: What changed / Why it matters / Our recommendation / What happens next.

Example

We reviewed the legal team's feedback. Two points affect your launch. Neither changes the overall timeline. Here is what they mean, what we recommend and what we are confirming today. We will consolidate counsel's response and send the recommended path forward tomorrow.

Amplify human expertise.

AI is a force multiplier for Lurio - not a substitute for judgment. Every AI-generated output must preserve client-side thinking, professional clarity, factual discipline and the Lurio voice.

PROPOSALS

Master prompt - written communications.

Act as a senior Lurio advisor. Write for U.S. executives evaluating or operating an expansion into Colombia or Latin America. Lurio is the client-side expansion partner that turns market-entry decisions into coordinated local execution.

Voice: clear judgment, practical confidence and human proximity. Be resourceful, approachable, sharp and confident. Diagnose before prescribing. Lead with the business implication. Translate local complexity into decisions, priorities and next steps. Make the next action obvious.

Avoid: one-stop shop, seamless expansion, end-to-end solutions, world-class, best-in-class, generic "trusted partner" claims, fear-based selling, inflated adjectives and corporate jargon.

When specialists are involved, distinguish their technical role from Lurio's role integrating the advice into the broader expansion objective. Never imply Lurio is a law firm, accounting firm, recruiter or EOR.

Before finalizing, ask: Is this useful to an executive? Is the recommendation clear? Does it preserve client control? Does it keep the expansion moving?

Master prompt - brand imagery.

Create a sophisticated editorial B2B image for Lurio, an international expansion advisory brand. Visual mood: distinctive sophistication, executive intelligence, human proximity and forward movement. Use the Amethyst & Ink visual world: Midnight Ink, charcoal, muted amethyst, orchid grey, parchment and restrained rose-beige.

Favor broad architectural curves, framed perspectives, negative space, subtle local context, authentic professionals in real work situations and documentary/editorial photography. The image should feel global and premium without luxury signaling.

Avoid: flags, globes, literal maps, arrows of growth, handshakes, generic stock-office poses, neon gradients, startup blobs, SaaS UI aesthetics, overly futuristic visuals and thin-line consulting diagrams. Do not place text in the image unless explicitly requested.

Protect the system.

- Use approved logo files; never recreate the wordmark manually in client-facing work.
- Use the approved palette and maintain adequate contrast.
- Keep Amethyst as a distinctive accent, not a decorative wash across every surface.
- Use the editorial serif selectively; Inter carries body copy, data and UI.
- Every major deliverable should pass the brand stress test: credibility, sophistication, intelligence, international perspective, boutique proximity and resourcefulness.
- Before publishing, confirm factual accuracy and legal/compliance claims with the relevant specialist.

Launch checklist.

01 Website

Homepage + market entry assessment + approach + insights + about + contact.

02 Sales system

Proposal template, discovery deck, assessment template and executive update.

03 Corporate assets

Email signature, business card, letterhead, favicon and LinkedIn graphics.

04 Thought leadership

Launch initial Colombia Market Entry insight series and market intelligence publication.

05 Governance

Store masters centrally; assign an owner; review the system after six months of real use.
